

E-Commerce Integration Data Sheet

In brief ...

It's never been so easy to handle web orders and traditional mail order from a single environment.

Credit card transactions are safe & secure and you do not need an army of IT people.

Orders can be processed via email alerts from your e-commerce site or via data transfers.

Key Features

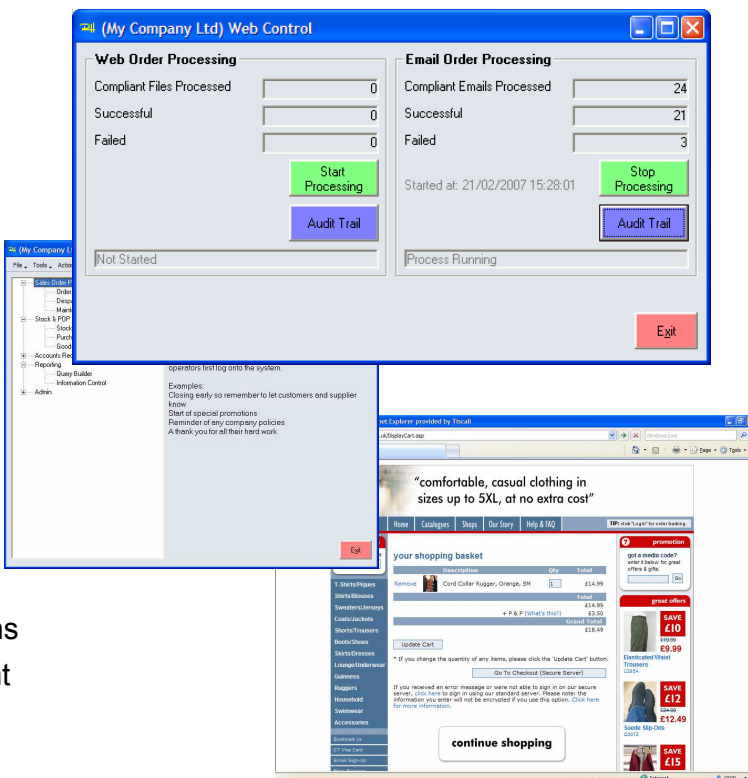

- Orders are automatically processed from your email inbox or via data transfers.
- Customer history records are updated correctly, even when a customer creates a new online account to place an order.
- All orders, whether from the web or placed manually, are picked and despatched using the same processes.
- The whole process is validated and audited.

Benefits

- Save loads and loads of time by not re-keying emailed orders.
- You can market confident in the knowledge that each customer will only receive one piece of targeted literature.
- All orders placed on the web are processed correctly.
- The interface doesn't stop with one web site. You have the flexibility to expand your business when you want.

“ Delstree Control takes all of the pain out of processing web orders via email with its fully automated web interface. ”

David Gordon,
Director,
Bamboo Clothing

- Fully managed implementations
- Continual product development
- Future proof technologies
- Great after-sales support
- Be a part of a growing team